Joseph Ratzinger: A Man Seized by the Love of Christ

A Reflection from Fr. John Roderick

On December 31st, 2022, at 9:34am, Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI passed away in the Mater Ecclesia monastery, at the age of 95. He had been living a life of silence and prayer in service to the Church since his renunciation of the papacy on March 13, 2013. He served as Pope for eight years following the death of his predecessor and good friend, Pope Saint John Paul II.

During the first year of his papacy, Benedict XVI gifted to the Church the first of his three encyclicals: Deus caritas est (God is Love) published on December 25, 2005. In its opening words, we can find an important key that unlocks the mystery of his multi-faceted papacy, as well as the person and mission of the late pontiff: “God is love, and he who abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him” (1 Jn 4:16). These words from the First Letter of John express with remarkable clarity the heart of the Christian faith: the Christian image of God and the resulting image of mankind and its destiny. In the same verse, Saint John also offers a kind of summary of the Christian life: “We have come to know and to believe in the love God has for us.”

We have come to believe in God’s love. In these words, the Christian can express the fundamental decision of his life. Being Christian is not the result of an ethical choice or a lofty idea, but the encounter with an event, a person, which gives life a new horizon and a decisive direction. Saint John’s Gospel describes that event in these words: “God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should ... have eternal life” (3:16). In acknowledging the centrality of love, Christian faith has retained the core of Israel’s faith, while at the same time giving it new depth and breadth.

The heart of Christian life is the experience and encounter with love. Without this experience of love, it is incomprehensible to understand either God or ourselves. For Pope Benedict, love was not a mere sentiment or

We are "The After People" and are ready to come alongside you or your friends, neighbors, coworkers, or relatives and provide comfort and support for as long after as is needed.

"My Stephen Minister listens—really listens. He doesn't judge me or tell me what to do but walks side by side with me. I never realized how helpful and healing that can be. With his care and support, I'm making it through." - Brian

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL

“Do what we can and God will do the rest. What seems so impossible to nature is quite easy to grace.”
- Elizabeth Bayley Seton

St. Elizabeth Ann Seton (1774-1821) led a life which had its share of hardships as well as inspiring accomplishments. Born in New York City, Elizabeth was canonized the first American-born saint. At 19, Elizabeth Ann Bayley married successful businessman William Magee Seton and had five children.

Attacks on American shipping, however, led to the plummeting of William’s import trade business. William also struggled with tuberculosis despite a trip to Italy for a more favorable climate. Through William’s Italian business partners, Elizabeth, part of a prominent Episcopal family, became acquainted with the Catholic faith. After William’s death in Italy, she returned to New York and joined the Catholic Church.

After converting to the Catholic faith, Elizabeth struggled to provide for her children. She remained strong, however, and an opportunity for her to teach girls in Baltimore, Maryland, presented itself with the endorsement of Bishop John Carroll. A wealthy convert then provided land near the countryside of Emmitsburg, Maryland. Here in Emmitsburg, Elizabeth began the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph in 1809. In the same year, she founded St. Joseph’s School which also began to house boarding students in 1810. The tuition from the boarding students allowed Elizabeth and her Sisters of Charity to establish a free Catholic school for girls in 1810.

Elizabeth formed her sisters in the the Vincentian spirit of St. Louise de Marillac and St. Vincent de Paul, and made vows to serve the poor. Elizabeth Seton’s legacy marked the beginning steps of Catholic education in America.

passing feeling: it was the deepest meaning of all things.

As we have heard proclaimed this Christmas season, the Word became flesh (John 1,14). Verbum caro factum est. The Latin word Verbum in Greek is translated Logos, which means reason, meaning, life, truth and also love. Pope Benedict tirelessly proclaimed that the meaning of life was Love, the order of all things, of all people, was Love. This Love was ultimately revealed in the Christ child, born a helpless child in a stable in Bethlehem on the night of Christmas. On this day the divine Light and Life of God came into the darkness, confusion and messiness of the world in order to illumine the truth of God and of man. Each of us, man and woman, created in his image and likeness, have been created with the unique ability to listen to and welcome this divine Word in our lives.

In our contemporary world, these truths about our humanity, of being created man and woman, about the family, and about the meaning of life and death are being eclipsed by the dictatorship of relativism and secularism, and by what is popularly known as “woke” culture. One could describe the papacy of Benedict XVI as a rigorous and joyful proclamation of the truth that all things can be only fully understood in the light of love: God is love, man and woman are made from, in and for God’s love, and this love can be experienced in our daily lives.

How can we experience this love in our daily lives? Pope Benedict often used the category of experience to speak about Christianity. He emphasized this dynamic and interpersonal nature of Christianity in the opening of the encyclical cited above: Being Christian is not the result of an ethical choice or a lofty idea, but the encounter with an event. Christianity is neither a series of abstract theological affirmations, nor the morality of the Ten Commandments, nor about just being good. Certainly, these are important! However, the heart of Christianity is the lived and personal encounter with the event of Jesus Christ present in the life of the Church, the sacraments and the Christian community. Following Christ implies the most important and life changing decision of one’s very life. It is the decision to let oneself be defined completely by God’s mercy, as his beloved son or daughter, as well as faith in His continual initiative to come and speak to one’s heart with words of tenderness and light. Only this personal encounter makes the belief in God’s infinite love credible and gives life a completely new direction.

The entire life and mission of Joseph Ratzinger/ Benedict XVI was the communication and transmission of his personal experience of the beauty of divine and human love. His final words before he died were: Lord, I love you! His life is an amazing witness to us of what is also our own vocation: to be completely seized by the love and person of Jesus Christ and his Church.

I would like to invite everyone to pray to Benedict XVI for the renewal of the Catholic Church in our time. Consider picking up a copy of one of his books or teachings. The best introduction that I have found to enter into the mind and heart of Pope Benedict is Co-workers of the Truth (Ignatius Press). It is a compilation of daily reflections from his various writings that accompany you throughout the entire year. This book was recommended to me when I first started graduate studies in theology in 2005, and it continues to nourish me even now. Pope Benedict XVI, pray for us!
